For Immediate Release: A message from City of Milledgeville Mayor Mary Parham-Copelan

The current COVID-19 situation has impacted everyone, not only here at home but across the world. As a City, we are here to serve our community during this difficult and uncertain time. Our goal is to ensure the health and safety of our community while maintaining service levels throughout this pandemic. Each day, the situation is being monitored and we will be operating in accordance with the recommendations of the Center for Disease Control (CDC) for the safety of the citizens and our employees.

If you need to do business with the City of Milledgeville, please check our website first as there are many services that are available online. We offer online payments for water bills, business license applications can be downloaded online and payment taken over the phone as well as many services on the Police Departments website.

While City services will continue, in an effort to further contain the virus, I ask that all City of Milledgeville residents and businesses practice social distancing. We must stop the spread of this virus and it will take everyone working together, far apart, to make that happen. Please cancel any large social gatherings, wash your hands, and stay home if you are feeling sick. Let's also remember to look out for your loved ones, neighbors and friends. We need to support our local businesses in this hard time as well.

We will continue to keep you updated through the City website and the City of Milledgeville Facebook page.

We can all support each other during these stressful times. Be safe and be kind.

Mayor Parham-Copelan
